

Heather G. Walser

As the old saying goes, an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure. With this in mind, Heather works closely with her clients, helping them take small steps today to ensure a better tomorrow. In Estate Planning, for example, if one dies without an estate plan, the State of Illinois will provide one. To avoid that result, Heather works together with her clients to ensure that the decisions made are best for her clients' assets, her clients' livelihood and – most importantly – her clients' loved ones.

Heather has more than 18 years of experience working with individuals, small businesses, and Fortune 500 companies. Prior to joining Lavelle Law, she worked as an associate in one of the largest multinational law firms in the world. If there is one thing that she has learned from her experience, it is this: When it comes to you, your organization, or your family, there is no substitute for attention to detail. She is committed to understanding all details and aspects of her clients' issues, and providing them with the highest level of service for their legal needs.
